

I oppose changes to rules that: widen radio band-widths (which will decrease the number of stations on the air); increase concentration in an industry that is already dominated by large corporations which have a vested interest in opposing open public discussions and debates which lead to criticisms that affect their profits; and allow for cross ownership. I support increases in local programming, public broadcasting, and increased access for diverse viewpoints.